A Message from Tristen and Elijah

Yo, fam, let's vibe and talk about these goals 'cause it's all about that G.O.A.T. status here! 🐾 199

Goals? Picture 'em like a glow-up, going from zero to G.O.A.T. level, no sus! 🌟 Each one's a bop, taking us from nothing to fire in life's playlist! 🔥 These goals, they just hit different. Skrrt! Skrrt! Tristen says goals are low-key awesome, ngl. Elijah is high-key invested in setting them if it's been a minute.

It's not just about the now; it's finessin' our whole future, you feel? We're the game-changers, startin' success, and anything less is like, "this ain't it, chief!" 🤖

Bet, ticking stuff off our bucket list is like copping the dopest loot in a game like a chad. Every goal we own is bussin', making us finesse the game like bosses! 💪 Imaging having no goals...nah, man goals be drippin'.

Hustle hard, crush those goals, and show the world how your goal slaps, fam! 🌟 #GoalsOnFleek
#Understoodtheassignment 🌟

This month students will be working on setting goals!

They chose goal setting and checkpoint completion as school goals that they will work toward to earn a celebration.

Starting next week. Ask your student what their goals are!

In a study conducted on working professionals, Edwin A. Locke, a pioneer in the field of goal-setting, found that individuals who had highly ambitious goals had a better performance and output rate than those who didn't (Locke, 1996).
